

Undergraduate Study Program – Economics

By completing the study program the student will have competences in:	Bachelor (undergraduate study program)
	By completing the undergraduate study program in Economics, a student will be able to:
Knowledge	1	Explain the underlying models, concepts and principles in the field of economics
	2	Associate different conceptual views with the conduct of specific policies in the field of economics in function of economic growth and development
	3	Interpret the influence of the national, supranational and international economic environment on public and private sector policies
Thinking skills	4	Identify, select and critically analyze relevant data in the field of economics
	5	Apply basic statistical and quantitative methods and decision-making tools
	6	Solve problems based on arguments in the field of economics
Interpersonal skills	7	Communicate information, ideas, problems and solutions oral or/in written form
	8	Work in a team
Ethics	9	Apply the principles of ethical and social responsibility inherent to the profession / business
	10	Create and develop conclusions related to relevant social or ethical issues

Knowledge - Our students will demonstrate basic knowledge in the field of economics; explain principles and concepts, associate different conceptual views related to economic policies and interpret influences from the economic environment.

Thinking skills – Our students will be able to collect and critically analyze relevant data as well as apply different methods to solve problems and reach decisions in the field of economics.

Interpersonal skills - Our students will demonstrate interpersonal skills in a team and communicate orally or/in written form.

Ethics - Our students will be able to follow ethical and social responsibility principles related to the field of economics and formulate conclusions on relevant social or ethical issues.